

Nomination of Beneficiary Form for Retirement members

In the event of your death while you are a First Super member with a Transition to Retirement or Retirement Income account, the money remaining in your account is not lost. Your Retirement account will be treated in accordance with the law depending on whether you nominate a reversionary beneficiary, nominate one or more beneficiaries to receive your lump sum, or do neither.

You have two options when deciding what happens to your money in the event of your death:

1. Reversionary Beneficiary

Under this option, a reversionary beneficiary will continue to receive your Retirement payments in the event of your death. A reversionary beneficiary must be:

- your spouse (including a de facto or same sex spouse)
- a child (including a step-child) who is under 18, or financially dependent and less than 25, or has a disability.

You can nominate a reversionary beneficiary when you complete the application form to become a member or the Nomination of Beneficiary form, and can change your nomination by advising us in writing at any time.*

A reversionary beneficiary has much the same rights as the original member. Among other things, the beneficiary can:

- choose to be paid a lump sum
- set their own level of regular payment within the limits imposed by law
- set their own investment strategy.

2. Nomination of Beneficiary

There are three additional ways to tell First Super who you want to receive your super benefit, including any insurance payable, when you die.

1. Lapsing Binding Beneficiary Nomination
2. Non-Lapsing Binding Beneficiary Nomination
3. Non-Binding Beneficiary Nomination.

To help you decide what type of beneficiary nomination is better for you, read First Super's Nominating Beneficiaries Fact Sheet at firstsuper.com.au/fact-sheets.

What are the differences between Lapsing Binding, Non-Lapsing Binding, and Non-Binding Nominations?

A Binding Nomination instructs the Trustee (First Super) about who you want to receive your benefit and in what proportions. As long as it's valid at the time of your death, we are legally bound to follow your instructions.

There are two types of Binding Nomination.

A Non-Lapsing Binding Nomination is valid indefinitely unless you cancel or amend it.

A Lapsing Binding Nomination only lasts for three years, so you will need to keep it updated for your wishes to be followed. Members with a Lapsing Binding Nomination in place will be reminded to update it before it expires.

A Non-Binding Nomination is a request for First Super to pay your benefit to the person or people you've asked. It is not legally binding, so while we will take it into account, we must ultimately follow super and tax laws when deciding who receives your money.

Tax on death benefits

Death benefits paid to dependants (generally limited to your spouse and minor children) are tax-free.

The 'taxable component' of a death benefit paid to non-dependants will be taxed at special rates. For more information, contact the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) on 13 10 20.

* This may affect Centrelink entitlements, please contact our Member Services Team for further information on 1300 360 988.

Who is a dependant?

Under superannuation law, a dependant is generally a child, spouse (including a de facto or same sex spouse), a financial dependant, or a person with whom you have an interdependency relationship.

Two people may have an interdependency relationship if:

- they have a close personal relationship
- they live together
- one or each of them provides the other with financial support
- one or each of them provides the other with domestic support and personal care.

An interdependent relationship can also exist if a close personal relationship exists but the other requirements for interdependency are not satisfied because of a physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability that requires a person to live in an institution.

What is a legal personal representative?

This is the executor of your Will or the person responsible for administering your estate if you do not have a Will. If you want to leave your benefit to a non-dependant, nominating a Legal Personal Representative means all or part of your super can be distributed under the terms of your Will.

If you do not make a choice

If you do not make a nomination of beneficiary or nominate a reversionary beneficiary to receive your Benefit, the Trustee must decide who receives the value of your Retirement account according to the law. The Trustee will make a lump sum payment to one or more of your dependants or your legal personal representative. If you don't have dependants or a legal personal representative, the Trustee will attempt to identify another person to receive the balance of your Retirement account. If no other person can be located, the balance of your Retirement account will be paid to the relevant state or Commonwealth Government lost money fund.
